Exhibition Information

In this exhibition, the artists would show how they see the image of Autumn in themselves. Imagine yourselves in Autumn and share your feelings with us. What would it be like? What comes to your mind when you think of yourself in the season of autumn? Are you playing with beautiful maple leaves in an autumn sunny day in your country or hiding under an umbrella from a heavy rainstorm? Maybe, you are happily shopping, decorating, and cooking for the autumn's holidays. Or, you might feel melancholic from the season? It can be a scenery, a state of mind, an imaginary creation by the artist's free spirit.

The title of your artwork should be as "Autumn in (something, somewhere — put your own words)" - each artist needs to put the name of your own place or mind. "Autumn in New York", "Autumn in my garden", "Autumn in the little girl's pocket"), etc. Let's celebrate atmosphere of the Autumn 2023 season!

There's something magical about enshrouding oneself in a downflow of flowers and/or leaves. It's like becoming a part of nature in a primeval way. When the leaves fall onto your face, hands and body, it's like a downpour of one of nature's greatest miracles. This painting celebrates that joyous feeling of receiving acceptance by life itself, with all its wonder and miracles.

I think it's a great gift not to be lonely, to have a companion to share our happiness with and to be with us in difficult times. Someone to snuggle up with and to just be quiet with. The beautiful autumn in the magic of nature is even more beautiful together

I buy a pumpkin every autumn from my local supermarket in NYC. I really like drawing pumpkins, especially pumpkins that have a kind of dark personality, pumpkins that are deep and complicated and noble and are not just there for the Halloween party. I could draw or paint pumpkins all day. I always like to see the pumpkins come out in October, they make me want to protect and paint them, and talk to them and love them. Pumpkins! That is why I called this picture Beloved Pumpkin.

It was prepared for the exhibition announced under the title "Autumn".

I was inspired by the title in the call for tenders, the theme of which is a jeans pocket, from which a hand pulls out autumn, as it happens to us these days as well. This season, dearest to my heart, arrived as suddenly as if someone had been pulled forward by a sudden movement.

I was born in Autumn and see it as "my season," and I see it in terms of earth images more than anything else. I like to go to the Bronx Botanical Garden especially in autumn, where I was inspired by all the earth tones. The idea of earth and the idea of love and life go together for me. Earthy gourds and leaves falling to earth, browns and yellows and orange. Somewhat pensive, moody but despite the sense of Hopkins' "goldengrove unleaving" there is the assurance that season will follow season in a secure progression, which makes me love the reliable arrival of autumn.

So the summer has passed,
As if it never happened.
It's warm in the heat.
Only this is not enough.
Life took under the wing,
Cherished and saved.
I was really lucky.
Only this is not enough.

Where I live, every season is beautiful, but my favourite month is October. Not too cold, not too hot. Nature is changing, everything is in a thousand colours. The lights are different... Everything is so magical. It's nice to be part of that magic. The swing is my childhood, but I still like to swing and fly.

Curator's Note

Congratulations on all of you who made artworks for this exhibition! I looked through all submissions carefully, and found everyone did a great job. I had to choose only 20 artworks, but certainly, I wanted to include so many more into this show. The theme is about an Autumn, which was apparently shown well emotionally, spiritually, technically and beautifully in this show. I was impressed by some color applications, ideas, compositions, brush works, and also touched by each artist's expression. Good work speaks to a viewer's heart. I selected pieces which talks to me and/or made me warm. I'm honored to have your Autumn mind in this art formation. Hope viewers enjoy a seasonal celebration through this display. Peaceful Autumn in you!

Sincerely, YUKAKO
